circus is enabled to exhibit polar bears day after day during the heated summer season. When told that it is made possible by always keeping a quantity of ice in the bears' cages, the questioner looks wise and then replies:
"Why, I might have known that."
Mountain lions, bears, panthers, wild cats and all similar animals live on animal meat, several beeves being cut up each day and distributed among the menagerie inmates.

If 50,000 gallons of water are required to quench the thirst of the score of elephants, 500 horses, 1,000 people and 200 menagerie animals, and there is no near-by hydrant or running stream, the circus manager at one orders water-wagons, and in less than an hour the water is arriving at the desired point by the thousand gallons. There probably is no better regulated circus en tour than the Selis-Floto Shows. That new things in the stream line do exist has been proved.
